

MEET THE

director candidates

What compels you most about serving KREMC members in a director role?

---

Terry Bouse (i)

It has been an honor and a blessing to sit on the board of directors for KREMC. We are a top-rated electric cooperative, and we have been privileged to serve the areas we do. The trust you put in me as an elected board member compels me to be diligent in decisions and mindful of my service to you. My past experience on the KREMC Board of Directors will qualify me in the issues facing the cooperative now and in the future.

Steve Miner (i)

KREMC rates are among the lowest in the state, and yet we remain fiscally sound. I remain driven to lead us into the future. KREMC recently purchased a Tesla, so we may continue to learn about trends that may be desired by our members. We are also exploring broadband internet options. Adopting new and exciting technologies will be critical to the success of KREMC. I will strive to make the right decisions and continue to take steps into the future to keep KREMC moving forward.

Rick Parker (i)

I come from a conservative background and have lived and raised my family in rural Kosciusko county. I very much like the co-op principle and how it works well in the electric business, as well as other companies. I try to bring my knowledge and experience of running an agricultural business to the board room. I feel very blessed that we at KREMC have the benefits of a thriving area to enhance the ability to provide efficient and reliable electricity to our members.

B. Andrew Airgood

Reliable and economically priced energy is vital for businesses to compete in today's market conditions. I operate a small farm, and I have connected to the agricultural community, which has helped me understand the importance of reliable and fairly priced energy at the local level. I've raised my family in Kosciusko County, which brings this understanding to a personal level. I am proud to live in Kosciusko County, and I see the opportunity to serve as a director for KREMC as a way to give back to this great community.

Dillon Whitacre

I own a business that serves three dairy cooperatives and over 50 cooperatives members. I understand the value of a cooperative. It is insightful to see first-hand how cooperatives positively impact our community. It would be my privilege to lend my experience working with local cooperatives and my insight as a KREMC member to serve on the KREMC Board of Directors.

Ken Anderson

I am seeking election to the KREMC Board of Directors because I believe my experience in this industry will bring fresh, innovative ideas to the table as we seek to continue the positive momentum of Kosciusko REMC. I have a great deal of experience in creative problem-solving, team building, and finding ways to use resources wisely. Finally, I believe in the importance of providing sustainable energy that moves us into the future. I want to preserve that goal for our lifetimes and that of our children, including my own two boys.

